Pass Christian spring pilgrimage reflects charm of historic South

Visitors to the Pass Christian spring pilgrimage March 25 will start their tour with registration beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the historic VFW building, 401 E. Beach.

Built in 1852, the building became known as The Trade Place in 1875, dealing in general merchandise. At that time, it was owned by Charles Rhodes, Pass Christian mayor, and quartermaster of Fort Henry.

Ladies of VFW Auxiliary No. 5931 will act as hostesses and serve welcoming coffee. Visitors are asked to make lunch reservations when they register.

The Town Library, 221 Scenic Dr., is the second stop on the official tour and will be open from 10 a.m. until noon.

Believed to be the oldest library on the Coast, the account books date back to 1893, although the library has actually been in continuous service for a longer period of time. It is a self-supporting association library designed to benefit the people of Pass Christian.

Especially, for the pilgrimage, the works of artist Phil Ambler will be on display.

Hostesses include Mrs. Sara Ambler, Mrs. Maudrey Knost, and Mrs. Katherine James.

City judges address merchants

Lucien Gex and Joseph Benvenuti, city judges from Waveland and Bay St. Louis, respectively, met with local retailers at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon to discuss the legal aspects of shoplifting.

Benvenuti outlined the penalties, including fines and prison sentences, for persons found guilty of the offense, and reminded the merchants "mere suspicion is not enough, you have to catch them red-handed."

Gex commented that shoplifting is the city of Waveland's "newest industry" and added that he hears approximately two shoplifting cases per month.

The merchants questioned the attorneys at length concerning the actual accusation of the alleged shoplifter. Both agreed that once a storeowner has seen someone conceal an item, that person can be accused of shoplifting immediately.

At the suggestion of Doug McQueen, Waveland Elementary School principal, the merchants decided to look into the possibility of purchasing several films on shoplifting to be distributed to schools in the area.

The merchants are also considering a plan to host a workshop conducted by the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission to feature experts in the fields of apprehending shoplifters and "hot check" passers.

Five jaillees transferred

Five persons arrested in Hancock County last weekend were transferred to Harrison County Jail Wednesday to prevent a possible escape attempt, according to Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner.

Ladner said when he "got wind" of the proposed escape, he authorized District Attorney Albert Necaise to prepare a petition to transfer the prisoners to Harrison.

The three men and two women face a hearing March 23 in Hancock County on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana, burglary, and possession of stolen goods.

Built by John Henderson between 1870-1875, the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gildersleeve, 1001 E. Beach Blvd., is the next stop on the tour. It will be open from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.

In 1900, the home served as headquarters for the L&N Railroad.

Mrs. Robert V. Gildersleeve and Ginger Sandlin will serve as hostesses.

Midway through the tour, a luncheon will be held at the Pass Christian Yacht Club located on S. Market St.

Originating in 1849, it is the second oldest yacht club in the United States, and home of the Knost Regatta, the first national regatta for women. The PCYC is also home of the annual Children's Pram Regatta.

A large anchor near the entrance to the building should be of particular interest to visitors.

Dr. Celestine Linnstraedter will be hostess.

An arts and crafts festival, hosted by Mrs. Crane Fitzwilson, will take place on the lawn between City Hall and City Library from noon until dark. The event is sponsored by the Pass Christian Rotary Club, and the Pass Christian High School band, under the direction of Virgil Fulcher, will present a concert at 2:30 p.m.

The next tour stop is the home of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Frierson Jr., 1024 W. Beach. The home will be open from 2 p.m. - 4 p.m.

This home is wrapped in spreading live oaks and graced with wide verandas overlooking the Gulf. The backyard is beautifully landscaped with indigenous material, including two ponds.

The west cottage was built in 1835, and the main house, with circular staircase, was built in 1885.

Members of the Pass Christian Historical Society will serve as hostesses, including Liz Pritchard, Betty Rogers, Janet Balch, Betty Carley, Dottie Cooper, Helen Cole, and Shirley Stinson.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. George Byrne, Beach Hurst, reflects the early Pass Christian architecture.

From its monkey grass-lined walk to its high molded ceilings, it contains all the charm and grace of the South.

The home will be open to visitors from 3 p.m. - 5 p.m.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Stephen Byrne, Mrs. Julian Byrne, Mrs. Allen Walker, and Mrs. Shelley Tucker.

Tea will be served from 4 p.m. - 6 p.m. at the final pilgrimage stop, the home of Dr. and Mrs. C.D. Taylor, 722 E. 22nd St.

This large, spacious Southern style home, known as Wild Life Manor, was built about 1920 on the front beach by William Burkenroad and moved to its present location in 1964.

Hostesses include Mrs. C.D. Taylor, Mrs. Pickney Sandlin, Mrs. Bertha Littel, Mrs. Pat Lowe, Mrs. Sue Haynes, Mrs. Ethel Fitzwilson, Dr. Celestine Linnstraedter, and Mrs. Mary Brandt.

Lagniappe stops

The Pass Christian pilgrimage will also feature 12 "lagniappe" stops not included on the official tour.

They include:
WILD FLOWER GARDEN-Menge Ave. and Jones Rd. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. This garden, featuring the beautiful white wild rose, has been a project of the Pass Christian Garden Club for 25 years.

Garden Club members will be the hostesses.

Hall of fame inductees return to tribute

Two of the newest additions to the Saint Stanislaus Hall of Fame addressed students at their old alma mater Friday before formal induction at the fifth annual induction ceremony Saturday night at the Saint Stanislaus dining hall at 7:15 p.m.

The inductees, Louis Blaize of Dallas, Texas, and Louis Claverie of New Orleans will be inducted along with the deceased Nat Tyner and Milton Phillips.

Brother Aquin spoke to the students about the history of the Hall of Fame and about the traditions of the school. He read biographies of the two deceased inductees, Milton Phillips and Nat Tyner.

Milton Phillips graduated from Stanislaus in 1921. He attended Tulane University after a brilliant athletic career at Stanislaus, giving up sports after a knee injury. He spent an additional eight years coaching athletics. He died in 1969.

Milton Phillips' sons, Bud and Walter J. Phillips were present at the assembly and Walter J. Phillips addressed the assembly. Milton Phillips' grandson, Michael, a 1975 Stanislaus graduate and the son of Walter J. Phillips was also present.

Nat Tyner graduated as salutatorian of the class of 1917 and then attended Loyola University Law School, graduating in 1922. In 1923 he was appointed district judge of the 21st Judicial District in Louisiana. Tyner died in 1955. His sister, Mrs. G. adys Norman attended the banquet assembly Friday.

Louis Blaize graduated from SSC in 1922 and went on to receive a degree in electrical engineering from Mississippi

State University. Blaize has received numerous awards for engineering excellence and presently resides in Dallas, Texas.

Louis Claverie graduated from Stanislaus in 1921 and was also a valedictorian of his class. He graduated in 1927 from Tulane University Law School and spent 25 years teaching at Tulane, retiring as a full professor in 1969. Claverie now practices law in New Orleans as a senior partner of the firm of Phelps, Dunbar, Marks, Claverie and Sims.

Four-year-old drowns after falling in cesspool

Four-year-old Dirk Anthony Bernard drowned Thursday afternoon when he fell into an uncovered cesspool at the home of his uncle, Joseph P. Favre, 1218 Longo St., Waveland.

Funeral services were held Saturday from First Baptist Church with interment in Garden of Memory Cemetery.

The child was the son of Mrs. Paulette Bernard, 398 Waveland Ave., and Milton Bernard, 1231 Fayard St. both of Waveland.

Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said Dirk and his brother were playing at the home of their cousins when Bernard noticed that his son was missing.

Following a brief search of the area, a neighbor, Dave Harvill, lowered a pole into the cesspool at the rear of the Favre home and hoisted the child to the surface by his shirt. Attempts at artificial respiration failed, and he was pronounced dead on arrival at Hancock General Hospital.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his brother Marc; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Myers of Bay St. Louis and paternal grandmother Mrs. Charles Bernard of Waveland.

Seal terms Picayune significant

Leo Seal Jr., Hancock Bank president, announced at the bank's annual stockholders meeting last week that the most significant event of the past year was the acquisition of deposits and facilities of the Bank of Picayune, reflecting an increase of approximately $15 million in checking and savings accounts. At year-end, Seal said deposits were up approximately $39 million, and after-tax earnings totaled over $1.78 million, of which $481,331 was paid in cash dividends.

Were hoop skirts really worn?

Were hoop skirts really worn during the Revolutionary War period? Or were the skirts held out by a series of stiffly starched petticoats? What fabrics were used? How did milady style her hair? How many yards of material went into the making of those dresses?

These and many more questions have been posed, and the State Historic Society of Wisconsin now has the answers. They have a project called "Patterns of History." The patterns (a set of four are sold for $10), and may be bought in size 10, 12, or 14. The sewing instructions, yardage information, and suggested fabrics are included as well as a full length sketch of the original garment, directions for making any necessary hoop skirt or bustle, and a booklet of fashion notes for the year of the dress with notes on colors, fabrics, hair styles, and accessories then in vogue. Need additional information?

Or want to order the patterns? Send your request to: State Historical Society of Wisconsin, 816 State Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53706. If you order the pattern collection you will receive a visiting dress of 1857, two afternoon dresses, 1865, and a walking dress, 1876. A weather vane, likeness of the Dove of Peace carrying an olive branch, sits on top of the cupola at Mount Vernon. It was designed by George Washington while he was in attendance at the Constitutional Convention after the Revolution. Mount Vernon staff reports visits to the shrine are mounting and expected to peak during the months of June and July when families take vacations.

Will someone kindly hoist the Flag of Truce while we settle a discussion about "The Liberty Tree?" Some say the tree was a holly—some an elm—some say it was a pine. Apparently everybody's RIGHT!

The Pine Tree Flag flew over the troops at Bunker Hill in 1775 and displayed the pine tree symbol of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. It was a white flag with top and bottom stripes of blue and it showed a green pine tree with the words: "Liberty Tree—An Appeal to God."

The holly tree is symbolic as a liberty tree because it is said that under its branches patriots planned maneuvers for liberty.

An explanatory article in a recent conservation magazine says whatever tree was popular in a particular area was planted as a liberty tree. Whatever the symbol, we all agree that Americans are liberty loving people and will go to all lengths to keep ever before them whatever symbol seems appropriate to let liberty live in the minds and the hearts of the people.

The Bell Telephone System has an organization known as "The Pioneers" and it is composed of those who have served a minimum of 20 years with the company. Many of these people are now retired and they can tell you the first employe pensions, death and disability benefits for employes started January, 1913.

Also, Cathleen Amy Barkley, Judith Lucille Dahn, Barbara Lee Fayard, Sandra Faye Henley, Charlotte Cecile Piazza, and Myra Ann Stiefel all of Waveland.

Inclusion on the Dean's List

Rev. John Scanlon, pastor, St. Clare's Catholic Church, Waveland, blessed St. Joseph's Altar at home of Mrs. Thomas Bergeron, left, 312 St. Thomas Street, Bay St. Louis. Mrs. Bergeron prepared altar in fulfillment of a promise to St. Joseph for favors she received. Altar carried traditional shapes of the cross, the Lamb of God, the Bead of St. Joseph, the Crown of Thorns, the Staff of the Good Shepherd, fish, turtle, palms, and wine. The bread, also, represented the body of Christ, and the wine, His blood.

Former Hancock nurse completes ostomy speciality

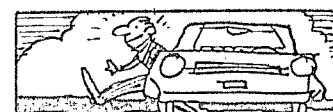

A lady who's worn many titles now has an even more impressive title and relatively new specialty—she's an enterostomal therapist.

Mrs. Dot Phillips, formerly of Bay St. Louis, has just returned to Memorial Hospital at Gulfport after completing six weeks of special training at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Texas to become one of four enterostomal therapists in the state.

Interest in the ostomy patient led her to apply for training to become an enterostomy therapist.

Enterostomal therapists are specialists who possess the knowledge, training and ability to care for the ostomy patient.

Registered nurses who have a sound knowledge of hospital procedure in the care of the critically ill patient, a general knowledge of drugs and a positive commitment to aid and instruct the ostomy patient, qualify for enterostomal therapy training. With this special training, Mrs. Phillips will be serving all ostomy patients at Memorial Hospital at Gulfport.

When driving, watch for pedestrians who step out from between parked cars.

Applications being accepted for local Youth Corps programs

Applications for the 1976 Youth Conservation Corps program are now being accepted at local high schools.

The Youth Conservation Corps program is designed to provide youth from 15 to 18 years old employment in an 8-week program of outdoor work improving the environment. The program is sponsored by the U.S. Forest Service.

Twenty young people will be selected to work in projects underway at Buccaneer State Park in Waveland, one of 10 such YCC camp sites that will be operated this summer.

Other camps will be established at LeRoy Percy State Park in Washington County, Gulf Island Nat'l Seashore in Biloxi, Jackson, Natchez, Harrison, the Natchez Wildlife Refuge, the Choctaw Indian Agency, Natchez Trace Parkway and the Tombigbee National Forest.

Harrison and the Choctaw will be residential camps with young people from all parts of the state considered for these camps. In the other non-residential camps, only young people within driving distance of the camps will be considered for those.

Enrollees at non-residential camps will be involved in a 5-day work week returning to their homes every day after camp. The residential camps will operate seven days a week for the full eight weeks.

Pay for enrollees will be computed by multiplying hours worked each week times the federal minimum hourly wage.

The YCC program is open to boys and girls, from all social, economic, ethnic and racial backgrounds. To be eligible, individuals must (1) express an interest in conservation or in learning about the development and maintenance of natural resources; (2) not be a known drug user or have a history of serious criminal or anti-social behavior; (3) obtain a work permit and social security number; and (4) have parental consent and, be recommended by a school teacher or other responsible adult other than a parent.

School principals or counselors at all schools in the State will be furnished application blanks. Completed applications must be received by April 30. All camps will probably begin in early June.

Incentive Program applications due March 31

Hancock County ASCS Committee Chairman B. L. Dossett, and Pearl River County ASCS Committee Chairman James O. Ladner announce that the sign-up period for the Forestry Incentives Program (FIP) is now underway at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office in Poplarville, and will continue through March 31.

FIP is designed to help farmers perform forestry practices that will increase the supply of softwood saw timber, continue sustained yields and improve management of privately owned forest lands. FIP practices are offered for planting trees, including site preparation, and for timber stand improvement work.

ASCS cooperates with the local representative of the Mississippi Forestry Commission assigned to technical responsibility under the program. The local forester will assist farmers in making management plans for needed forestry practices.

Cost sharing will only be offered for annual agreements this year. The rates of cost sharing for practices under the FIP program is approximately 75 percent of eligible cost of performing the practice.

Dossett and Ladner advise that this is the time to start making application so that site preparation and timber stand improvement work can be done in the spring and early summer when farmers are not busy with their field crops. They further advise that applications for tree planting in the fall should be filed now.

Shop around for that calculator...

Just about everyone who adds, subtracts, multiplies or divides in the course of day-to-day life can use an electronic calculator. Calculators can help balance checkbooks, organize a trip to the grocery store, figure out expense accounts, assist with homework and prepare those dreaded income tax forms.

There are dozens of types of calculators on the market, and many of them are fairly inexpensive. You can find them almost anywhere — department stores, drug stores and business supply shops. Calculator prices are changing rapidly so it pays to shop around. Check local newspaper ads, but don't buy the first bargain you see.

There are two basic types of calculators, the hand-held type and the desk top-style.

The desk top calculator is great for business and office use, and it is slightly more expensive than the hand-held model. The hand-held calculator is preferred by most consumers for at-home use.

That's right for you, be sure to check the keyboard. Are the keys easy to use, or are they too small and close together? If they are too small, you will probably hit two numbers at the same time and make unnecessary mathematical mistakes. Next, check the numbers. They should be large and easy to read.

Most low-priced calculators operate on throw-away batteries with a life as short as eight hours. For just a little more money, you can buy a rechargeable battery with a longer life span. An AC adapter will cost you an extra $10 but will allow you to plug your calculator into the household current through a regular wall socket. First Baptist Church Bay St. Louis, Miss.

There is a freshness in the springtime which is unmatched by any other season. Its one of my favorite times of the year. Everywhere you look there are new beginnings. The trees, flowers, and grass all show evidence of their newness. In fact, they all seem to demand that we give attention to the changes which are taking place.

Christianity, the relationship which a person has with Christ, is much like springtime with its new beginnings. A new beginning is what becoming a Christian, a follower of Christ, is all about. The Bible speaks of this new beginning as a spiritual birth. It is being born of God. In this unique beginning there is a conscious opening of one's life to a personal God and a closing of one's life to the ways which are contrary to the commitment one has made to God.

Every new day is also a new beginning for a Christian. It's a new opportunity to allow God to make us more of what He wants us to be. It's a new opportunity to be more like Christ. And, thanks only to God's grace, every time we fail in our attempt to be like Christ, we have the assurance of God's forgiveness and another new beginning, depending upon our attitude. If in our failure to be like Christ, we are sincerely sorry, God's grace provides for a new beginning.

The springtime should remind us that God is willing if we are!

Stennis advocates

'pay as you go' spending

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. John C. Stennis Tuesday endorsed a Constitutional amendment which "would require that the Federal government operate on a pay-as-you-go basis," except in grave national emergencies. Stennis called the amendment "a giant step on the road to fiscal responsibility and financial integrity" which would "prohibit the Congress from continuing to mortgage the nation's future."

If ratified by the states, the Constitutional amendment would require that a budget deficit be offset by a surtax to be levied in the calendar year following the fiscal year in which the deficit was incurred. The provision for the surtax could only be set aside by a three-fourths vote of all members of each House, as a safety valve against a grave national emergency.

"The approach is clear and simple," Stennis said. "The amendment would be self-executing. If expenditures exceed revenues, a surtax would have to be levied to balance the budget," he continued.

Stennis cautioned that "financial conditions are too much out of balance now to attempt to balance the budget immediately and abruptly."

Six Flags previews 'Texas Chute-Out'

Six Flags Over Texas' skyline is dominated by a new feature this year—a 200-foot-tall parachute ride called the Texas Chute-Out.

The attraction, which is expected to open in mid-April, is one of the largest additions to the theme park in several years.

Riders taking a "jump" on the parachute drop will experience a sensation unlike any other attraction they have been on. Twelve parachutes, carrying two to three riders each, soar 175 feet up into the air and then drop at free-fall speed for 35 feet before the chutes billow open and slow down for a "soft" landing.

The parachute ride is another example of how the park has grown in size and attractions during 16 years of operation.

When the park opened in August, 1961, there were 45 attractions operated by 650 youthful hosts and hostesses. Today, there are more than 100 rides, shows and attractions tended by 2,300 employees.

Since 1961, almost 26.6 million persons have passed through the turnstiles, and almost 2.3 million persons, a record for a single season, visited Six Flags last year.

Taking a cue from Texas history, creators decided to divide the park into six sections and develop rides and attractions that tell the history of the state under different sovereign governments.

They planned for guests to get a glimpse of the past through sight, taste, touch and sound as they journeyed through the sections representing Mexico, France, Spain, the Republic of Texas, the Confederacy and the United States of America.

In the Republic of Texas section, for example, guests watch a gun battle between the sheriff and outlaws. Nearby is the Crazy Horse Saloon where one can relive bygone days watching lively song-and-dance routines by dancehall entertainers.

LaSalle's River Ride in the French section takes guests on an exciting trip through bands of hostile Indians and wild animals along the river.

In the Spanish section, guests climb aboard hollowed-out logs in the Log Flumes and float down water-filled passageways leading to a splashing plunge down a steep hill.

There are four hours of live shows, including a new one-of-a-kind attraction called the American Pie Jamboree which highlights slices of American life using a blend of people, puppets and pictures. This year's Southern Palace Show called "Celebrate" is an upbeat show that includes every type of music from hoedown to rock. A cast of 14 with a 16-piece orchestra are featured in this largest show production in the park.

On selected days, top-name entertainers perform at the Six Flags Music Mill Theater, giving guests an opportunity to see their favorite stars and take in park attractions at no extra charge.

Every night a costume-character named Prof. Cyrus Cosmo climbs aboard his Cosmoobile to lead the Incredible Electric Light Brigade Parade.

All of these activities can be observed from the 300-foot-tall oil derrick, which also allows guests to get a bird's-eye view of the Dallas and Fort Worth skylines.

The numerous restaurants in the park add another dimension to sampling the diverse cultures which make up Texas. Several dozen restaurants offer everything from spicy Mexican food to crispy fried chicken. There are also numerous snack stands supplying the American standbys of hot dogs and hamburgers.

A one-price ticket costing $7.50 pays for all rides, shows and attractions inside the park. Children under three get in free. The only extra charge is for food, souvenirs or games.

Some people opt to spend two days at Six Flags instead of crowding all activities into one day. A special $11 ticket allows visits to the park on two consecutive days.

There are many aspects which set Six Flags apart from other entertainment centers. As an example, people visiting the park are referred to as guests and employees are called hosts and hostesses.

Every staff member, including executives, are expected to help keep the park clean. Everyone is expected to pick up a scrap of paper or cigarette butt.

Extensive landscaping adds color and beauty to the park and a new feature this year will be floral displays in red, white, and blue.

Six Flags is surrounded by many other entertainment centers. And since it is in Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, it's only a 15-minute ride from the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Messrs Dewey, Cheatem, and Howe, Ltd., Attorneys at, New Orleans, La.

Attn: Mr. Willie Cheatem

Dear Sirs,
We are in receipt of your numerous invoices, expense vouchers, and other even more seemingly unrelated billings. Further, we have received the notice of alliance concerning yourself and Mr. Tellus Howe, in compliance with instruction from your firm's senior member, Mr. Dampien Dewey, to seek another legal opinion. Finally we note the astonishing hike in fees to cover this new arrangement, including the hiring of an additional secretary, Miss Nileen Dewey. It would appear your arrangements to represent us are well in hand, though we fail to understand the necessity of your purchasing four new office chairs when only three new desks, with matching filing cabinets and expeditious accessories, have been acquired for the purpose.

Do you think you could possibly see your way clear to submit a progress report along with your future billings?

Our readers are being kept abreast of developments in the proposed case of Dewey, Cheatem and Howe vs. the National Organization for the Liberation of Female and Indigenous Rocks (NOLFR); D. C. & H. vs. Indigenous Rocks of America (IRA); D. C. or H. vs. Gertrude; plus your proposed filing of "p" for documents against the NOLFR group. To this end the progress reports are almost essential. Also, we are a little curious as to what we can expect for our money. We are enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope should this prove to have been the hang-up.

Best personal regards, we think,

Texas bicentennial pageant features Bay poet's work

Heritage, a poem by Audrey Wright of Bay St. Louis, is to be featured in a Bicentennial pageant being staged this month in San Antonio, Texas. First printed last month in Sunday Echoes, the work contains a vivid description of the American flag, its meaning to us all, and its proper place in our society.

Miss Wright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jody Wright, and a sophomore at Bay Sealer High School.

THE BABE IN BLUE

Two hundred times America
Has sent the old man out
And bought anew the Babe in Blue
To fight and win each bout.

To start the year he learns to speak
The tongue of Government.
He learned his trade and soon
That he was Heaven-sent.

With eager steps he sets his stride
With God before and all behind
To lead his land in a march of pride
To the future he's not blind.

As time goes on he ages
With lines upon his face
And God above sends angels
To bring him home in grace

With a year of tender memories
He takes his final bow and leaves
And faraway above the clouds
A new Blue Boy relieves.

LUCKY VOYAGE

Imagine just how crowded
Old England would be
If pilgrims (hadn't) packed up
And sailed across the sea.

At first they went to Holland
And thought they had it made
But soon their kids were talking
In Holland's way and trade.

New they put their sails to flying
Their ships were westward set
And they sailed on much farther
For land still better yet.

Days passed upon Mayflower
"Till in the old cross' nest
One shipmate called down, saying,
"Land ho! Soon we'll all have rest."

At first the times were hard
And many did not live.
But those who did, swore solemnly
To this new nation they would give.

Thank God for the British,
Thank God for the people
Who wanted to be free.

Check presented

Hancock United Way

The Hancock County United Way Fund this week received its second check from the Mississippi Gulf Coast Foundation Trust in the past three years.

The foundation Tuesday presented Mrs. Mae Beyer, chairman of the Hancock United Way Fund, with a check for $300 to be used by the 11 agencies United Way supports in Hancock.

United Way in Hancock was also given $60.68 in February of 1973 by the foundation trust which was established after Hurricane Camille in 1969 and is managed by 11 board members.

Tuesday's presentation was made by two Hancock County trustees of the foundation, Hunter S. Kimbrough, chairman, and Fred Wagner.

Kimbrough said the foundation, which currently has $45,000 in trust funds, was specifically set up following Camille to be spent for work-while purposes and improvement of life on the Gulf Coast.

The foundation makes its bequests from interest earned on the principal and does not touch the principal itself, Kimbrough said.

Kimbrough and Wagner said the foundation would like to raise the amount in the trust. Those wishing to make bequests should contact the Hancock Bank, the foundation's legal trustee.

Administration of the foundation's funds is the responsibility of the board of trustees with one representative chosen from each of the three coastal counties and one each from the eight coastal cities. Trustees are appointed by elected officials of the county and cities.

Mrs. Beyer said Tuesday's donation would go toward support of the county's 11 agencies which fall under the United Way program.

Poison Prevention Week Scheduled March 21-27

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission urges all consumers to actively participate in National Poison Prevention Week, March 21-27 by making certain that all toxic household substances are far from the reach of children.

Each year hundreds of thousands of children are accidentally poisoned through ingestion of improperly packaged or stored household substances. The vast majority of poisonings happen to children under five years of age who cannot distinguish between food and paint thinners stored in paper cups; candy and multi-colored pills; and soda and furniture polish.

The Poison Prevention Packaging Act which requires a number of household substances to be sold in child-resistant packaging is administered by the CPSC. Furniture polish, drain cleaner, turpentine, aspirin products and prescription drugs are among those products which must be safety packaged. For the sake of the elderly and handicapped who often cannot open such a container, the Act provides that a regulated product can be packaged in one non-complying size provided it carries a warning that it is not recommended for use in households with children, and provided that the product is also supplied in complying packages. Prescription drugs are also available in non-child-resistant packaging upon the specific request of the prescribing physician or the patient.

Some simple effective tips for eliminating the hazards of accidental poisonings include:

Store kitchen and cleaning products such as detergents, disinfectants and drain cleaners on top shelves of cabinets. If possible, put a lock on the storage space.

Do not store food and cleaning products together. Keep cleaners, detergents and disinfectants in their original containers.

Keep all medicines out of the reach of children or in a locked box. Use child-resistant containers as an added precaution. Make certain all medicines are packaged in child-resistant containers.

Clear the garage and basement of gardening weed killers, house paint, pesticides, lighter fluids and other toxic substances and store them under lock and key.

What would you do with 2000 lbs. of trash?

It's hard to believe that each of us produces 2,000 lbs. of trash a year, but it's true. Unfortunately, too much of this solid waste ends up on our highways, city streets, and many other places where it's not wanted.

Solid waste disposal is everyone's problem. Not only does it waste tax dollars, it's an eyesore. It doesn't have to be this way. If we work together to clean up what we messed up, we can have one of the most attractive states in the country.

But one individual, or group of individuals can't do it alone. It's going to take all of us working collectively to get the job done. There's a Clean up Mississippi Committee in your county that needs your help, right now.

Let's Clean Up Mississippi

Mosquito control is everybody's business

Last year in Mississippi, 37 people died from St. Louis Encephalitis, a disease that is transmitted from birds to people by a mosquito.

One of the primary sources of the mosquito that spreads St. Louis Encephalitis is artificial or man-made containers. Mosquitoes will develop in practically anything that holds water, from a beer can to a neglected swimming pool. Most of us learned this in elementary school, but we have either forgotten or we don't think it's important, and we allow situations to exist that may be a source of disease and annoyance to ourselves, our family and our neighbors.

Now is the time to thoroughly inspect your property to detect and eliminate any unnecessary water-holding containers. One of the most effective breeding places for mosquitoes is an automobile tire. Other items to look for include drums, buckets, jars, tin cans, automobile parts and other metal junk, clogged house gutters, or virtually anything that will hold water. Containers that normally hold water, such as pet watering pans, livestock watering troughs, wading pools, bird baths, or flower vases, should be emptied or flushed twice weekly.

Mosquito control, to be effective, must be a community effort. Do your part today.

WORMING CATTLE

If you are not on a sound worming program, internal parasites are costing you $8 to $10 per head a year.

Beef cattle producers should worm their breeding herds at least twice a year. Feeder calves should be wormed at weaning before being placed on feed or grass.

If animals are under heavy worm pressure, it may be necessary to worm again in about three weeks.

It is extremely important to keep dairy replacement heifers free from worms before calving. This may require worming six to eight times from two months of age to calving. After you place dairy animals in the milking herd, research shows that it is not economical to worm again.

Two of the better broad spectrum wormers are Tramison and Thibenzole. Be sure to read and carefully follow all label directions. Here are some restrictions for each:

TRAMISON - Do not give this wormer to dairy animals of breeding age. Do not administer the injectable solution to cattle within seven days of slaughter or other formulations within 48 hours of slaughter.

THIBENZOLE - Observe a four-day or 96 hour withdrawal period after treatment, if milk is for human consumption. Do not treat animals within three days of slaughter.

LIQUID VS SOLID FERTILIZERS

Liquid fertilizers have been used satisfactorily for years and have been equal to solid fertilizers when applied at the same rate and in the same manner.

Some liquid fertilizer manufacturers have claimed special yield results because of the high water solubility of phosphates. The fact is that phosphates in high analysis granular mixed fertilizers are also 90 to 100 percent water soluble.

Small amounts of a liquid fertilizer will not replace large amounts of a dry fertilizer.

Whichever you use, you may spend a great deal of money for fertilizer and still not use enough to produce satisfactory yields, if you do not follow Extension soil test recommendations.

SEED

If you plan to grow your own seed for next year's crop or plan to grow planting seed to sell, avoid planting in fields that have a bad weed history.

Do not plant soybeans in fields that have a problem with purple moonflower. It is much easier to keep weed seed out of planting seed than to clean them out after harvest.
